

her perspective

Recent research in consumer behaviour has indicated that men resist green behaviour as "unmanly". This talk Nina Maritz will look at the correlations between this viewpoint and her experience as an architect and advocate for sustainable design. It will weave a little through her personal architectural history and muse on the implications of gender issues when it comes to sustainable architecture.

Nina Maritz, 22 August, 5.30pm @ ClfA [0.2 CPD points]

pride and prejudice - gender and sustainable architecture

